Description Cal Lutheran University theatre's arts program prepares students for performances and technical productions in live theatre, film, television and multimedia. The theatre arts department offers a series of fundamental and advanced courses in theatre along with numerous performance opportunities in our highly regarded Mainstage, Blackbox and film and video productions. Students participate in a yearly average of four major productions, including musicals, original films, improvisational theatre and the Blackbox series. Not only do CLU students shine onstage — they're also busy behind the scenes, taking positions of responsibility with publicity, sound, light, makeup, scene and costume design. And opportunities continue through the summer with student internship opportunities in Camp Shakespeare and the Kingsmen Shakespeare Festival, a professional theatre company that performs on campus.

Description The Theatre Arts Department emphasizes production and experience in the “doing” of theatre. The Department offers four options: the general option enables students to develop a broad theatre or dance curriculum with primary interests in directing, playwriting, management, or theory and criticism in order to create a course of study that best suits their goals. The acting option is for the student whose primary interest is in acting for the stage. The design and technical theatre option is for students with interest in the theatrical design areas of scenery, lighting, costumes, makeup or sound, or in the technical areas such as scenic or costume construction, production management, or technical direction. The last option is the dance option for students that are interested in a general background in theatre with a specific performance interest in dance.
