

Ian Gardner

President

As President of Chanje, Ian builds on a 20-year career in energy, sustainability, innovation, and finance focused on evolving renewable solutions and business model innovation.

Ian is a veteran of the clean energy space, working globally to develop utility assets with Duke Energy, and advising executive teams worldwide on energy issues with the Boston Consulting Group. As an entrepreneur, Ian successfully co-founded and exited two sustainability focused companies in recycling and wind energy. Ian also led the Los Angeles office of Oracle Capital, a boutique cleantech investment bank focused on early stage cleantech companies, and was employee #4 at the Los Angeles Cleantech Incubator, leading the development of key programs resulting in the incubator being named the No. 1 Cleantech Incubator in the world in 2015.

Ian has a bachelor's degree in biology/pre-med from Davidson College in North Carolina and an MBA from UCLA Anderson School of Business.

"The blending of purpose, passion, human development and profit into a single undertaking is compelling. Bringing Chanje to the world in the form of clean transportation, global impact, a culture that drives the internal personal growth of its employees, and financial reward is the new work paradigm and it's exciting to be part of making it a reality."
